Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a key generator, and more specifically, to a key generator for an encryption algorithm which is applicable to various encryption devices. 2. Description of the Related Art In general, encryption devices such as audio/visual equipment and computers, when applied to a communication scheme, encrypt data and a key for generating encrypted data with a predetermined encryption algorithm, and transmit the encrypted data. Encryption devices used for communication are classified into two types: one is a general encryption device based on an integrated circuit (IC), and the other is a device of a type in which part of a decryption circuit is separated into a chip form and mounted on a circuit board of a device. FIGS. 1A and 1B are a circuit diagram and a timing chart, respectively, showing a data encryption/decryption circuit, which is a representative example of a general encryption device, in the related art. In FIGS. 1A and 1B, Kx is an input key value, K1 is a secret key value, and Kc is a cipher key value generated by an encryption algorithm. As can be seen in the timing chart, the operation of the general data encryption/decryption circuit in the related art will be described below. First, when the data encryption circuit receives the input key value Kx, generates a cipher key value Kc with an encryption algorithm, and transmits the generated cipher key value Kc to the decryption circuit. The decryption circuit receiving the cipher key value Kc from the encryption circuit decodes the received cipher key value Kc by an encryption algorithm to generate a plain text value. The plain text value is decoded to recover the input key value Kx. FIG.
